The Leaning Tower of Pisa, one of the most iconic monuments in the world, is a masterpiece of medieval architecture that attracts millions of visitors every year. Located in the stunning Piazza dei Miracoli in Pisa, Tuscany, this bell tower is famous worldwide for its unique tilt, which makes it both extraordinary and captivating. Designed by Bonanno Pisano and built under the direction of various architects between the 12th and 14th centuries, the tower was begun in 1173 and completed in 1372, after nearly 200 years of work interrupted by wars and structural issues.

Standing 56 meters tall and constructed entirely of white marble, the tower rests on a circular base with arches and columns that give it timeless elegance. Its tilt, caused by ground subsidence during construction, has been stabilized over the centuries through engineering interventions, making it safe for visitors. Today, you can climb its 294 steps to enjoy a breathtaking view of the city and the square below.

But why do tourists love the Leaning Tower of Pisa so much? It's not just its tilt that makes it special, but also its thousand-year history, architectural charm, and the magical atmosphere of the Piazza dei Miracoli, a UNESCO World Heritage Site.
